District Attorney, County Clerk Seek to Be Re-elected

The unofficial Republican County Convention at the municipal auditorium this afternoon gave its full approval to the following candidates for recommendation to Republican voters of the county at the fall primaries following an opening address by Republican State Chairman, Edwin F. Jaekle and nominating speeches.

Member of Congress, 27th Dist.—Jay LeFevre of New Paltz.

State Senator, 29th Dist.—Senator Arthur H. Wicks of Kingston.

Member of Assembly—Assemblyman John F. Wadlin of Highland.

District Attorney—District Attorney N. LeVan Haver of Kingston.

County Clerk—Robert A. Snyder of Saugerties, present incumbent.

All of the candidates, with the exception of Mr. LeFevre, were successful themselves.

County Chairman Roscoe V. Elsworth presided at the convention and Edwin F. Jaekle of Buffalo, state chairman of the Republican party, delivered the convention address.

Chairman Jaekle said that "as citizens and Republicans we know our duty to the country and its established leadership in this war emergency, and we are living up to our obligations without reservations or quibbles. The Republican party likewise will be true to its obligation to preserve for our armed forces and the civilian population the two-party system of government which is the only alternative to autocracy."

The state chairman's address in full follows:

Mr. Chairman, Fellow Republicans, Ladies and Gentlemen:

It is always an inspiration for me to come to Ulster county because you take your Republican principles seriously. In important state and national elections the returns from this rock-ribbed Republican stronghold are never in doubt. You speak your mind with ballots in a way that reflects your high ideals of government.

Friends, every time I hear of Ulster county the first thought that comes to mind is invariably related to that grand old Republican stalwart whose memory we all revere—Philip H. Elting. We miss him more than we can measure at Republican State Headquarters, where his advice and counsel were invaluable. We admired him for his unflinching Americanism; for his gallant aggressiveness. He was a worthy citizen whose example we can all afford to emulate.

Fellow Republicans, at the meeting of the State Committee yesterday at Albany it was decided to hold the Republican state convention August 24th and 25th at Saratoga Springs. Here and now, I want to extend a cordial invitation to Ulster Republicans to attend the convention and have a hand in nominating winning candidates for governor and other state elective offices.

The Republican state committee yesterday unanimously ratified the declaration of policy concerning prosecution of the war and embracing America's responsibility for the establishment and maintenance of a just and lasting peace as adopted April 20th at Chicago by the Republican National Committee. We Republicans of New York may well be proud of the action of the national committee because our own representatives, J. Russell Sprague and Mrs. Ruth B. Pratt, were leaders in the formulation and adoption of that vital party policy.

The action of the national committee was particularly gratifying to me personally because in substance the resolutions embodied a commitment urged by your state

Cobleskill Democrat May Oppose LeFevre; Is Known Widely

Sharon J. Mauhs of Cobleskill, Schoharie, was expected to be nominated as the Democratic candidate for member of Congress from the 27th Congressional District, at the Democratic county convention being held this afternoon in the municipal auditorium. If chosen he would oppose Jay LeFevre of New Paltz, who was nominated for that office at the Republican county convention this morning.

Mr. Mauhs is a prominent trial lawyer in Schoharie. He is married and the father of two sons, John, 14, and Peter, 11. His wife was the former Miss Gertrude Williams Myers, whose family originally came from Saugerties.

Mr. Mauhs in 1933 was elected district attorney general of the state and served four years. In 1934, on a two-months' leave from the attorney general's office, he was appointed special assistant district attorney of Rensselaer county to prosecute the second trial of the Scarnici murder case.

Wicks Heads State 'Little Byrd' Unit

State Senator Is Chairman of Commission to Seek Operation Economies

A Republican state senator from this city will play in Albany the role U. S. Senator Harry F. Byrd (D., Va.) assumed in Washington—chief hunter of government economies.

Senator Arthur H. Wicks of Albany avenue, chosen chief of the state's "Little Byrd" commission yesterday, has as aides Abbot Low Moffat, New York city, head of the Assembly ways and means committee, vice chairman, and Mrs. Rhoda Fox Graves, Gouverneur senator, secretary, the Associated Press reports. Both are Republicans; the G. O. P. launched the expensive study.

Senator Jeremiah F. Twomey, Brooklyn Democrat, was named a second Democratic member of the group, whose personnel remains incomplete with the declination of Nathan Straus, former state senator and federal housing administrator. Straus was one of five members designated by Governor Lehman.

The other Democrat in the 15-member commission is Assemblyman George F. Torsney, Queens.

While Wicks said plans for start of the study were incomplete, two other committees organized to study civil service, and war-time nutrition needs.

Assemblyman Fred S. Hollowell, Yates county Republican, was made head of the civil service group, to which Senator Daniel G. Quinn, Queens Democrat, was added as an eighth member. Senator Thomas C. Desmond, Newburgh Republican, is chairman of the nutrition investigators.

All three groups were created by the 1942 legislature, the "Little Byrd" commission admittedly with G. O. P. hopes of bolstering party economy claims in the coming political campaign.

10 Firemen Felled

New York, June 20 (AP)—A five-alarm fire in a paper warehouse located near the Greenwich village section of Manhattan felled at least 10 firemen today and sent huge clouds of smoke over the downtown area.

Lehman Asks All Parties Select 'True Liberals'

Governor Says This Is Time for Men Who Feel Deeply About Human Injustice

Syracuse, N. Y., June 20 (AP)—Governor Lehman urged today that "true liberals" and men determined to fight the war through to the destruction of "evil forces" be nominated by all political parties for this year's gubernatorial election.

"This is no time to choose candidates on the basis of self interest or political expediency," he said in an address prepared for the state C. I. O. convention.

Declaring that neither was it a time for "soft speaking or pussy-footing," Lehman added: "And I say to you that men who failed to be deeply stirred in the past by injustice and cruelty may fail to be greatly stirred by injustice and cruelty in the future."

"We must place our reliance and trust on men who have clearly demonstrated their hate of injustice and who have not hesitated or lacked courage to lead the fight to wipe it out. We must depend on those whose fibre has been tested in the past and has not been found wanting."

Lehman said that candidates for the governorship must not only possess administrative ability, but courage, vision and a stout heart, adding that "they should be men whose acts and words, or lack of acts and words, need no apology or justification or explanation."

When the forces which would tear down freedom and security are destroyed, he added, then the state and nation must have leaders "who have the vision and courage to build for a better world—a world in which men and nations can live together in understanding and good-will—a world based on freedom and security and equal opportunity."

He said the state could not afford to "elect mediocrities."

Lehman noted three qualities which he said were requisites for candidates from all parties:

They must have the confidence of the people and be willing to support the President's war effort to victory.

They must represent the people "in their determination that the peace which will follow victory will assure freedom and security and opportunity for all."

They must have demonstrated that they possess "an enlightened social viewpoint and that they have the courage to fight for what they believe."

Lehman congratulated leaders of the C. I. O. for their co-operation in the war emergency and for their understanding of the necessity at times to "waive certain standards and requirements that affect the social and economic life of our people."

"When the war is over and victory has been won we must return to complete observance of the standards which have previously been set up and which have become part of our permanent social and labor code."

The C. I. O. convention, meantime, wants President Roosevelt to intervene in behalf of Harry Bridges to further the nation's war effort, to which it has pledged "unqualified support."

Ingersoll Is Called

New York, June 20 (AP)—Ralph M. Ingersoll, editor of the newspaper PM, has been called for induction into the army next Wednesday despite an appeal for deferment by Marshall Field, owner of the paper. Explaining his appeal, Field said he told the draft board "in effect that he (Ingersoll) was indispensable, although I don't think I used exactly that word." "I considered him as near indispensable as any man could be in a newspaper. I suppose there is nothing more that I can do about it. . . . It's the first time I have made such an appeal for anyone in either the Chicago Sun (also owned by Field) or PM," Ingersoll, who is 41 and has no dependents, indicated earlier that he would not appeal the local decision.

U. S. to Establish Anti-Sub Base On Cuban Shores

Nine Further Ship Losses Bring Sinking Toll to 286 Vessels

(By The Associated Press)

The nation looked hopefully toward Cuba as a new anti-submarine springboard today after a dark day that brought announcements of nine sinkings in Atlantic and adjacent waters.

The official toll of cargo carriers in the western Atlantic since Pearl Harbor mounted to 286.

The state department in Washington announced an agreement had been reached by which Cuba "offered" facilities to the United States war department for training aviation personnel and for operations against enemy undersea craft. Work on these installations will begin at once.

The latest U-boat victims were three United States ships, two Dutch, one Norwegian, one Canadian, one Dominican and one Panamanian.

In the case of the Dominican schooner La Nueva Altargaria, the submarine captured the entire crew after the sinking. The prisoners were turned over to the Dominican sloop Comercio, which was forced to jettison its cargo and warned to discontinue sailings.

Six men were lost from one of the American vessels, which went to the bottom in 20 minutes after two torpedo hits June 10. After drifting in lifeboats 12 hours, 38 of the crew reached port.

The second U. S. ship was

Help of United States in Mediterranean Seems Logical Move in View of Value of Middle East to Allied Effort

By DEWITT MACKENZIE (Wide World War Analyst)

There seems to be no reason to doubt the report from competent quarters in London that British Premier Churchill, now in this country conferring with President Roosevelt, is urging that the United States provide reinforcements to stabilize the Mediterranean front, since that would be a logical request in view of the latest developments.

Loss of control of this zone—one of the foundation stones of Britain's strength—might cost the allies the war.

The eastern Mediterranean—taking in Egypt and the Suez Canal which Nazi Marshal Rommel now is trying to reach across the smoking sands of the Libyan Desert—is strategically an inseparable part of the Russo-middle east cockpit in which our argument with Herr Hitler bids fair to be pretty well ironed out this summer. Or let's put it this way: Hitler must break into the Russian Caucasus or the middle east, or both, in order to get the supplies which he needs to keep his machine running. As you know now there are two main routes to his goal. One lies through Soviet things that Hitler is playing for—to weaken the allied defense in the middle east in preparation for his own great offensive.

Yankee bombers already are doing yeoman's work in this eastern Mediterranean and middle eastern theatre, and probably a reinforcement of our air fleets there would represent our most feasible aid for the immediate future. One suspects, however, that Mr. Churchill also is asking for warships in the Mediterranean, or at least for troops both for Egypt and the middle east.

Competent observers in London think such a reinforcement of the Mediterranean might cause a postponement of the opening of a second front in western Europe until the spring. Still, Hitler probably has the strength to stand off an allied invasion of western Europe while he stages an all-out offensive towards Syria or against the Russians.

Should the Nazi chief succeed in breaking into the middle east while holding on this western front, the allied cause certainly would be in a precarious position. So if the allied high command should be faced with the necessity of making a choice between reinforcing the eastern Mediterranean or invading the continent, it wouldn't be surprising to see them choose the former course.

U.S.O. City Drive Nets Only $1,000; Report Incomplete

City Chairman Flanagan Ask Workers to Get Out and Match Spirit of Local Donors

Workers in the city-wide U. S. O. War Fund Campaign are not yet completely organized and in some wards the actual canvass has not yet been started. This fact was revealed last night at the first meeting called by City Chairman E. Frank Flanagan. As a result there were only a few workers who reported and the amount reported was only about $1,000.

Response of citizens when called on was reported to be good and one of the workers reported that everywhere he called there was a splendid reception and a genuine desire to give to this worthy cause which will give the men in service some measure of comfort while fighting to preserve the nation and make our homes secure.

E. Frank Flanagan, city chairman who heads the workers in the city's $12,000 drive, said that from the few chairmen and workers who reported last evening and from reports of those who did respond, it appears as though in several of the

U-Boats Got Signals From Hotel Windows

Asbury Park, N. J., June 20 (AP)—Axis submarines were flashed signals from hotel windows along the Atlantic coast, Judge Thomas Siddall, Atlantic City defense council chairman, asserted last night.

The Atlantic county judge said he had seen the signals reflected from hotels in Atlantic City and other shore resorts. "The flashing of lights from top floor windows was visible for miles," he told the 23rd annual convention of the New Jersey Department, Disabled American War Veterans.

"A stop was put to it—I guess it is safe to say that, but whether it is going on elsewhere I am not in a position to say," he added.

Anglo Aide Refuses to State Time

Reports From Middle East Say Germans Are Preparing Huge Offensive

Wedge Is Cut

Germans Cut Path Pointing to Heart of Sevastopol

By ROGER D. GREENE (Associated Press War Editor)

British dispatches said today that Adolf Hitler, apparently bent on a full-scale invasion of the Middle East, had urgently requested France's pro-Nazi Premier Pierre Laval to cede 1,000,000 tons of French merchant shipping in the Mediterranean to Germany.

Other developments indicated strongly that the great battles of this summer were to be fought in the ancient lands of Egypt, Iraq, Iran (Persia), and possibly Turkey.

That would be Hitler's choice of a second front. Safely away from his own Reichland it still affords him a battleground more accessible to his sources of supply than it does the Allies, whose supply ships either must run the gauntlet of Axis sea and air attacks in the Mediterranean or use the longer route around Africa and to Cairo. However, Sir Stafford Cripps, Prime Minister Churchill's deputy in the House of Commons, declared bluntly that Britain and the United States would launch a great, successful attack on Hitler in the west when the proper time comes.

"We cannot say when the attack will come," Sir Stafford said in London, addressing a meeting observing the June 22 Nazi invasion of Russia.

"I am not going to help Hitler by telling you or him the time," he said, adding: "The attack must not fail."

Race of Time

Balancing Cripps' statement against reports of a vast Nazi offensive impending in the Middle East, the situation appeared to be shaping into a race of time to see which side would strike first and force the locale of battle.

In Washington, London reports that Prime Minister Churchill was seeking quick United States help in the Mediterranean theatre were taken to indicate that the British believed a tremendous German drive against Suez was impending.

While British north African armies are needed for the defense of Egypt, Hitler's field headquarters announced that "the destruction of Sevastopol continues" amid heavy fighting around a northern fort of the big Crimean naval base.

With Sevastopol out of the way, Hitler would be in a position to send his armies into the oil-rich Caucasus and down that land bridge to the Middle East in a thrust synchronized with one eastward against Egypt and the Suez.

A B.B.C. broadcast quoted its Moscow correspondent as saying "The Germans have ready-made a high road leading to Sevastopol . . . the danger is very great."

The correspondent said Nazi shock troops had cut a wedge pointing dangerously at the heart of the city and were attacking furiously despite an estimated toll of 40,000 killed in the last 16 days.

While Britons at home clamored for an "inquest" into the grave but not necessarily disastrous defeat of the British armies around Tobruk, Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck hastily mustered his forces to combat an expected Nazi onslaught toward Egypt.

Simultaneously, the conservative London Times declared that Libya was a second front already established, and added:

"Egypt and the Mediterranean will have their rightful place in the survey of this decisive year on which the President and the prime minister are engaged."

Heretofore, mention of a second front in Europe has generally envisaged the use of American troops; but there was no information whether United States forces were now supporting the British in the bitter desert struggle.

British imperial headquarters said two main Axis columns advancing eastward across the Libyan sands had turned back within 35 miles of the Egyptian frontier after a brief fight with British mobile troops.

"The enemy did not press his advance," a British communiqué

Strawberry Season Is in Full Swing

British Would Like to Receive Berries

Ithaca, N. Y.—The fresh strawberry season is in full swing around most of the state and is the time for consumers to do their canning and preserving.

This year the British have an interest in New York's strawberry crop and are bidding for quantities to be processed and shipped to England, to be made into the jam or marmalade, the Britisher always wants for his breakfast, reports Dr. M. C. Bond of the agricultural economics department at Cornell.

Central New York
In the Syracuse area, the supply of locally grown strawberries comes first from growers near Syracuse. The later, more abundant supply comes from the large strawberry-growing area around Hastings in Oswego county. Still later in June, and often finishing by July 4, the supply of strawberries comes from Oswego county near Lake Ontario.

Western New York
Farmers in Erie county have a larger acreage of strawberries than in any other county in New York state, Dr. Bond says. Supplies for local use are now at their peak, he adds, and points out that now is the time to "put up" strawberries for use later in the year.

Grown in Every County
Every agricultural county in the state grows some strawberries, but the big producers upstate include Erie with 1097 acres; Oswego 583 acres; Columbia 344; Monroe 178; Rensselaer 189; Onondaga 128; Oneida 126; and Saratoga 90 acres.

The Albany-Troy-Schenectady area is served by Columbia, Rensselaer, and Saratoga counties. Strawberries from Onondaga county appear on Utica markets, and those from Monroe go into Rochester pretty largely.

The college of home economics at Cornell points out that strawberry has always been a popular fruit flavor, and may be kept for winter in berries canned with little sugar, in berries canned in a sirup made with part honey or corn sirup, and in berries canned without any sweetening at all.

Has Good Flavor

One advantage of berries canned with a small amount of sugar is that they have a good strawberry flavor, which is not true of those canned with a large amount, such as a cupful of sugar to a quart of berries.

If jar space as well as sugar is scarce, it's a good idea, the college says, to can crushed strawberries. These may be used in sauces for shortcakes, frozen desserts, puddings, and pies.

Canned crushed strawberries: Crush the strawberries and heat them, in the top of a double boiler or in a saucepan set in a pan of hot water, just enough to draw out the juice. Cook the fruit for 3 or 4 minutes, then pour it into containers. Use no sugar or just enough to sweeten slightly. Seal and process the fruit for 5 minutes in a boiling water bath.

Over $500 in War Saving Bonds have been bought by our school this year as well as nearly $200 in stamps. This is a good record and one which shows our desire to aid the country in every way we can.

O'Hanlon Will Be Transferred To Fighting Ship

Washington, June 20 (AP)—Coxswain William Reese O'Hanlon, Brooklyn, who believes shore duty is no job for a fighting Irishman in the navy, is going to get a chance to trade blows with the enemy at sea.

The navy arranged his transfer to a fighting ship after Representative O'Toole (D-N. Y.) had forwarded to President Roosevelt a letter from O'Hanlon, lamenting the fact he had been assigned to duty at the Newport, R. I., training station firehouse when he had "a job to do" at sea. He was formerly a New York city fireman.

"I feel like a slacker, a do-nothing," wrote ex-fireman O'Hanlon to O'Toole, his personal friend and congressman.

"Wars aren't won by soft jobs, but as Churchill said by 'sweat and toil.' The country is seeking Americans willing to fight and suffer for what they believe is right. Well, the country has one, but is passing him by."

"Each day I remain in Newport is lost. Each day when I could be doing something destructive to the Axis, I stand idly by. Nothing would make me happier than to be stationed aboard a destroyer, protecting convoys or seeking enemy submarines off our shores, and to help bring about their destruction and a peace which we Americans love and appreciate."

In forwarding the letter to President Roosevelt, O'Toole said O'Hanlon had given up his $3,000 a year job as a city fireman to do his bit for his country.

"My purpose in sending you the letter," O'Toole wrote the Chief Executive, "is the thought that it will provide you with inspiration in these troublesome times as it did me. America needs no fear of her ultimate destiny while the country has such men as Reese O'Hanlon."

Subsequently O'Toole received a reply from Presidential Secretary Marvin H. McIntyre informing him the navy had ordered O'Hanlon transferred to sea duty.

Robert Seelav, a New York businessman and friend of Representative Sol Bloom (D-N. Y.), came to Washington recently to confer with the chairman of the House foreign affairs committee.

He was stopped at the entrance to the capitol by a guard who asked the contents of a grip he carried.

"Nuts," replied Seelav. The guard replied politely that under wartime regulations all packages entering the capitol had to be examined. "We're not here to be kidded," he added. "I must know what's in that grip."

"Nuts," said Seelav, throwing open the grip, which contained samples of cohune nuts from Mexico.

The guard looked in the grip, turned to his companion and exclaimed:

"Why, they are nuts!"

Chuckling as he told the story, the fun-loving Bloom said Seelav came to seek his advice in getting help from the State Department to locate new sources of cohune nut supplies.

"The nuts," said Bloom, "are oil bearing and are valuable in the manufacture of soaps and other toilet articles. Their shells are also valuable as filter in the manufacture of glass masks."

Representative Lambertson (R-Kan.) thinks New York city's unemployed instead of trying to get on the W.P.A., should go west and become farm hands.

"We welcome these unemployed New Yorkers," he told the House during debate on the W. P. A. appropriation bill, "and we will not charge them $25, $50 and $100 to start to work. While we cannot furnish a suit and a half for overtime, we will furnish plenty of work."

Commenting on statements of New York members that widespread unemployment requiring federal relief still existed in New York despite the stimulus of the war production program, Lambertson said:

"What about the men in the country who used to run lively stables? What would they have done had they waited for Uncle Sam to have taken care of them? They did not do that; they went out and found jobs. What are the tire men and auto men doing the day? They are not going on W. P. A. They are going out and finding these new jobs. Let those people in New York go out and find jobs."

HOME BUREAU

Lomontville Unit

The Lomontville Home Bureau had its annual picnic June 17 at the home of Mrs. J. Van Wagenen. This ended the program of activities for the season. After the picnic supper Miss Parsons demonstrated the different shades, drapes and lights, to use for a complete black-out. Then a social get-together was enjoyed by all.

A collection of $5 was taken and regardless of the rainy night 45 guests and members were present.

The unit wishes to thank Mr. and Mrs. Van Wagenen for giving the use of their home for this picnic. The new season's program will open with a rally in September.

Meeting Slated

Annual dinner of the Poughkeepsie Camera Club will be held on July 1, in the Nelson House in that city. Raymond Dean is president of the club.

So your last year's rubber bathing suit went S-T-R-E-T-C-H-I-N-G to cover your this year's figure? Then use it to stretch your pile of rubber scrap. And do it now, because you can't stretch time and the rubber salvage campaign lasts only 10 days more.

Victor Kane, minister of the Albany Avenue Baptist Church; Friday, the Rev. Harvey Todd, minister of the Woodstock Reformed Church; and Saturday, the Rev. L. H. Luck, minister of the Missionary Alliance Church, will lead.

Eludes Searching Parties

A pair of big blue eyes and a head of bright, blonde hair peered through the doorway of a house at Hunns Lake, near Poughkeepsie, the other night. An innocent boy of nine inquired: "Mother, why are all the people out here and all the cars?" It was William Edward Dillinger, who for seven hours had been the object of an intensive search conducted by nearly 500 State Troopers, auxiliary police, firemen and sheriff's aides of Dutchess county. "You can imagine my feelings when I saw that face appear in the doorway," said his mother. "He just seemed to appear out of nowhere. How he ever got through that crowd of persons looking for him and just walked into the house I never shall know."

Auto Industry Saves 1942 Model Passenger Tools

By DAVID J. WILKIE

Wide World Automotive Editor
Detroit, June 20—For the time being at least the automotive industry appears to have saved its 1942 model passenger car tools and dies from the War Production Board's scrap metal collection drive.

It is not at all certain, however, that it can continue to keep these essential tools intact if the war continues through another two years.

What the car industry is going to do in the immediate post-war period depends almost wholly upon the fate of those 1942 model tools and dies. If they remain available for quick re-installation in assembly plants and the forging shops passenger automobiles will begin rolling off production lines again in a hurry—perhaps within four months.

If they have to be turned over to the war metals production effort there will be no new passenger automobiles for a year or more.

It can be said that when 1942 model passenger automobile production ceased last February the industry had not even a rough sketch of another model on hand. The car designers had some individual ideas of what might be built into a 1943 model—if there were to be one—but the manufacturers several months earlier had decided otherwise. In the interest of the war effort they agreed to forego tooling for a model to succeed the 1942 design. That was before the United States was brought into the war as an active participant and before it became necessary to suspend car production for the duration.

Thus if the requirements of the war effort call for the metal in the industry's 1942 model tools and dies the car manufacturers literally will have to start from scratch after the war. They could re-tool with duplicated new equipment for production of the 1942 model passenger cars but they probably would not do so because of the expense involved in what at best would be only an interim model.

One suggestion that has been heard in trade circles has dealt with a possible "co-operatively produced" car in the immediate post-war months to meet urgent demand until such time as all manufacturers would have new competitive models blueprint and ready for production.

If, as now seems probable, the immediate post-war passenger car is built from the blueprints and with the tools and dies that were used on the 1942 models, it is a fair assumption that it will be retained in production for at least a year. That not only will give time for designing the model to succeed it but also enable the manufacturers to recover in part at least, some of the expense that was involved in the initial purchase of the production equipment, its war-time storage and its re-installation in the factories at the end of the conflict.

The cost of the present 1942 model tools and dies has been variously estimated at from $60,000,000 to $100,000,000. Their critical and strategic metal content salvagable as scrap has only a small fraction of that value.

Proposals for scrapping them were made by some officials of the War Production Board. They were deferred, however, after conferences with representatives of the car manufacturers and an agreement to scrap a considerable volume of duplicated equipment currently in the industry's possession.

SCRAP RUBBER DRIVE

The drive for scrap rubber, now so sorely needed in our war effort, offers an opportunity for everybody on the home front to help win the war. No quota has been assigned for the scrap rubber drive in this community, because nobody knows how much scrap rubber there is lying about the homes. It is up to the people to dig out every scrap of discarded rubber that can be found and take it to the nearby service stations.

The school children here are setting an example in their efforts as was shown in the picture reproduced in Friday's issue of The Freeman. In this instance four boys collected over four hundred pounds of scrap rubber.

Eric A. Johnston, president of the National Chamber of Commerce, sums up the importance of the scrap rubber collection in the following statement:

Sound rubber conservation efforts must be made immediately. We believe the most promising results in this direction can be obtained by voluntary action rather than by governmental compulsion. If an immediate scrap rubber campaign proves that the amount of scrap in the hands of the public is larger than anticipated, this fact will weigh heavily against any compulsory conservation efforts on the part of the government.

The rubber supply problem is serious. The essential needs of the United Nations as well as our military requirements must be largely supplied from our stockpile of rubber. Our strictly essential civilian requirements must also be met to keep our economy and our war production program moving, but these requirements of rubber must be kept to the minimum by every possible voluntary expedient. Our non-essential civilian uses of rubber on passenger cars must be reduced to a marked degree.

The part being played by the gas station men is also worthy of mention. Any citizen who assumes that he is doing a gasoline station a favor when he pulls in and dumps a load of old rubber is precisely 100 per cent wrong. The favor runs the other way. The generous donor is only making more trouble for a brand of business that was already having plenty of grief, with the current loss of sales from less driving, and with loss of helpers through the army draft.

The gas people accepted this rubber collection job, just as they have accepted a lot of other public or semi-public services that don't pay them anything, because that's the kind of business it is and that's the kind of people who run it. Does the average American really appreciate the services rendered regularly by the vast army of men operating gasoline stations throughout this country? There is nothing like it anywhere else in the world. The institution they have built up is maintained at a high level, although now operating under obvious difficulties.

Little kids in school have, or used to have, a song like this: The policeman dressed in blue is a friend to me and you. Well, the gas station men are friends to all the world. And it is literally true that, as much as any other kind of people you can think of, they keep the world going.

JAP WEAKNESS

One of the most important things about any army is its morale. In the case of the Japanese, morale is linked with a psychology very different from that of American soldiers. Close observers report that while the Jap troops fight very well under familiar conditions, they do not adapt themselves readily to new situations. This defect may be fatal.

They have been trained to do certain things in certain ways. And if the American commanders and fighters would only be so kind as to do likewise, everything would be fine for the Japs. But when American maneuvers are executed in an unexpected way, when enemy troops improvise their own tactics on the battlefield, when American fighters facing Japanese soldiers or sailors or flyers fail to fight according to Japanese Hoyle, the Japs are baffled. This is said to occur often in air fighting. The Japs' mental confusion makes it easy for quick-thinking and improvising Americans to get the best of them. Even commanders may suffer from this defect as well as private soldiers and aviators.

So "the best-laid plans of mice and men gang aft agley." Such failure of simple one-track minds is like the trouble that scientists have found with rats and mice. Trained to follow a certain procedure, and then having the conditions suddenly changed for them, the animals often suffer nervous breakdowns.

MEN'S RIGHTS

Now some of the viewers-with-alarm are beginning to worry about what shall be done with the women when this war emergency is over. Women have gone into so many unaccustomed lines of work, and have usually done so well what they have tackled, and are so steadily reaching out for new worlds to conquer, that naturally a lot of sensitive males are acquiring an acute case of consternation.

Doubtless there are real problems here. There are always problems where women are concerned. And it is disconcerting to look ahead and speculate on what the females are going to do about the males when normal life returns.

The safest guess, however, may be that normal life is not going to return. Women have been called "the great conservers," and whoever coined that expression was probably shrewder than he knew. They conserve everything they take hold of, and they take hold of more and more problems and perquisites, and whatever they annex seems to remain naturally in their jurisdiction. Thus the more a man ponders these things in his heart, the more he is likely to skate along quietly and hope for the best.

The patriotic glow a fellow gets from clearing his old tires and tubes out of the garage is something grand.

The kids seem puzzled about their own dive-bombing tactics, but they'll find a way.

Mars, patron of war, should give his gold cup this year to the defenders of Sevastopol.

NERVOUSNESS

In examining recruits for the last war we found some young men who were underweight, had rapid heart beat, tremor or trembling of the hands when they were held out at arm's length in line with the shoulder. The question was whether these symptoms—underweight, rapid heart beat, lack of appetite and history of insomnia or poor sleepers—were due to thyroid disease—goitre—or just to nervousness.

The recruit was asked to sit down for a few minutes, was given a paper to read, and, if the examiner had time, he chatted with him instead of examining another recruit. In a few minutes as the recruit had lost some of his nervousness and if his heart was beating less rapidly and nearly at a normal rate, his symptoms were believed due to nervousness.

What is one real difference between the goitre patient and the nervous patient?

In the nervous patient the heart is not rapid when he is at rest mentally and physically whereas in goitre the heart rate is "always" fast, even at rest.

In the New York State Journal of Medicine, Dr. G. W. Cottis, Jamestown, states that two-thirds of the conditions which cause patients and sometimes physicians to mistake other conditions for goitre are under the head of anxiety, neurosis (fear of goitre) and an exhausted condition of the nervous, heart, and blood vessel systems.

There is nervousness, weakness, rapid heart beat, emotional disturbances, tremors and loss of weight or constant underweight. When the sensation of choking appears many of these patients come to the surgeon to have the thyroid gland removed.

Some of the differences pointed out by Dr. Cottis between hyperthyroidism (goitre) and nervousness are:

In hyperthyroidism there is some enlargement of the thyroid gland; heart is always fast and does not slow down when patient is at rest; the patient has a good appetite; his skin is warm and moist, and weight is lost even with the good appetite. In neurosis (thinking disease is present) there is no enlargement of thyroid gland, appetite is poor, hands and feet are cold and clammy.

These differences should reassure patients when their physician assures them that the thyroid gland is normal.

VICTORY PLEDGE!

Literary Guide

By JOHN SELBY

To take your mind off war—
Nobody has produced a logical explanation of the vogue of the mystery, but there is a vogue and there are plenty of books to satisfy its demands.

Carter Dickson, who has a certain amount of humor in him, has provided something called "The Gilded Man" this month. One of the great difficulties a mystery writer has is to furnish a logical start, and one of the oldest devices is a houseparty at which something drastic occurs. Mr. Dickson uses this device in "The Gilded Man," but his book is neither trite nor ordinary. In it Mr. Dickson's H. M. appears as a Hindu magician, with diverting results.

There is plenty of mystery in "The 12 Disguises," by Francis Beeding, although the book is not a "mystery" in the conventional sense. It is the miraculous adventure of Colonel Granby, chief of the British secret service, and it begins when the Colonel arranges his own funeral, and slips away to France under cover of the obsequies, there to take on the Nazis and a considerable group of other antagonists. Not to mention the 12 disguises. This is a very good job of its kind.

Ruth and Walter Teague also use the houseparty take-off. "You Can't Ignore Murder" is remarkable, however, for two things. One is the extraordinary and dreadful man who is the victim, a prince of heels. The other is the thoroughly civilized set of character studies in the book. The dialogue is good, the reader's sympathy is readily aroused in the right quarters, and the result is excellent entertainment.

Cortland Fitzsimmons is now on Cape Cod, he and Percy Peacock. Professor Peacock is Mr. Fitzsimmons' detective stooge, and rather an amusing one. He is a professor of psychology who, oddly enough, spends his vacations with a Cape Cod summer theatre group and this particular summer is the center of a murderous mess not unlike those concocted by Phoebe Atwood Taylor, who long ago staked out the Cape as her personal preserve. Mr. Fitzsimmons calls it "Death Rings a Bell."

Lastly, we have "Don't Mention My Name" by Eaton K. Goldthwaite, in which a couple of business men produce the requisite tangle by stumbling upon a murder, and then doing all the wrong things.

Washington Conferences Tend to Show That Significant Events Are Being Formulated by Roosevelt, Churchill

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, June 20—When the President of the United States and the prime minister of Great Britain find it necessary to confer in the midst of war, especially with the hazards of travel and the great importance to each to be close to his own governmental operation, it may be assumed that events of transcendent significance are in the making.

The last time Mr. Churchill and Mr. Roosevelt conferred there were no announcements but in the weeks that followed the strategy adopted was gradually unfolded. Decision had to be made then as to how much aid would be extended to the Dutch East Indies or the Philippines, what would be sent to Russia and how the European fronts would be supplied notwithstanding the demands of Australia and our own mid-Pacific situation.

Today it may be assumed that big decisions will be made that will not be announced this coming week and perhaps not at all. For the determinations must necessarily concern the next and most vital step in the war.

Where shall the second front be opened? And when? How shall the American troops be mobilized and what points? How will the tonnage for any cross channel invasion be gathered and what will be the nature of the heavy air attacks that will be made by American bombers, as well as the R. A. F., as the Allies start their biggest offensive of the war.

Will there be attempts at Norway at the same time? Will the American troops be entrusted with the invasion in France? There is some reason to believe that an American expeditionary force landed in France will be more welcome than a British force. Still the movement will have to be an Allied affair in order to utilize air power and sea power along with land army movements.

The fact that our government officials are so ready to mention persons in positions, of the unemployment insurance paid and the detail to ascertain that the recipient is fully qualified in receiving it. The members gathered for a supper preceding the talk. It was decided to hold the business meeting in the early fall when the Forum will resume its sessions. Attending the supper and meeting were the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. LeFevre, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Coons, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schmidt, Mr. and Mrs. John Gaffney, Mrs. Percy Mott, Mrs. Alice DuMont, Mrs. Fred B. ## "AT CENTURY'S TURN"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

I wonder how many of the older men who read this column have as boys wandered along the banks of the Rondout creek and dreamed of the days when Indian canoes cruised its waters, and what changes have occurred since those days the nation was being born.

I can look back to the days when many boats, famous in their day, were berthed in the Rondout creek. I recall the old Mary Powell, Queen of the Hudson; the ferry transport, and the old Skillypot, that plied between Rondout and Sloatsburg in the years before the Rondout creek bridge came into existence.

Among the old time tugs that I recall are the Rob, the C. D. Mills and the Dr. David Kennedy, all of the Cornell Line. I also recall the old sidewheeler Oswego and the famous ice king, Norwich.

And speaking of old time river boats I recall that Captain Benjamin Wells died on June 20, 1922, in his home in Port Jervis. Captain Wells for 37 years commanded the old Transport plying between Rondout and Rhinecliff, and was one of the best known of the Hudson river men.

With the rationing of sugar now in force I recall the days at the turn of the century when the big strike in the coal fields made it necessary for the local coal dealers to ration out coal to their customers. One of the jokes cracked in those days was to the effect that when a young man went calling on the young lady on Wednesday night during the winter he was urged to take along a scuttle of coal. It may come to it that when a friend is invited to dine he or she will be asked to bring their own sugar.

In discussing the rationing question I remember that John M. Cashin now chairman of the local ration board, in June, 1922, resigned his position as city treasurer to accept an appointment as a special U. S. attorney.

Mayor Walter P. Crane was head of the city government that year and he appointed Edward L. Merritt, well known newspaper man, to fill the post left vacant by Mr. Cashin's resignation.

Leading the pages of the city's history ahead to 1932 while Eugene B. Carey was mayor in June of that year he appointed Ernest W. Kearney and William B. Byrne as members of the Board of Education.

Washington In Wartime

By Jack Stinnett

Washington—The Capital can keep a secret.

Rumors run rife. Tales are told out of school. Gossip splashes all over the place. But the press, radio, government officials and that portion of the general public in the know on their honor to keep a military secret until such time as it should be released, and the tight lips in this democracy make the totalitarians, constantly under the threat of death for talking too much, seem like a bunch of garrulous back-fence tattlers.

I'm talking about the "mysterious" visit to Washington of that No. 2 man in the Soviet government, Vyacheslav Mikhailovich Molotov.

His week visit here was nobody's secret—except America's. The giant Russian bomber in which he and his party came flew over New York and landed there. It flew over Washington and landed here.

He was four hours earlier than expected and the State Department and White House went into a tailspin to make connections at the airport. Once arrived in all that hustle and bustle, Molotov calmly took daily constitutional on the White House grounds. Once he inadvertently popped up in front of newsreel cameramen, waiting for the Duke and Duchess of Windsor. He went off the reservation far enough to buy a bag of peanuts from Steve Vasiliakos, the White House corner vendor.

By not announcing Molotov's visit the government was saved thousands of dollars in extra guards; Molotov and his party were permitted freedom; and the enemy got the jolt of those conference decisions without any time to prepare offsetting propaganda.

Fair Promoters
Don't Like PlanGovernment's Plea Finds
Many Cold to Idea,
Notably Jersey

Washington, June 20 (AP)—The folks who run the country fairs, those jamborees of jellies and pies and hogs and steers, are upset over a government suggestion that they be cancelled for the duration.

While some of the state and county expositions, long a happy rural institution, have been called off because the army has needed the fair grounds, officials of a large number received the government plea with decided chilliness.

Some were quick to say that when Joseph B. Eastman, defense transportation director, asked the farmers to postpone the fairs he was not in accord with Agriculture Secretary Wickard, who earlier urged their continuance as a morale builder.

The attitude of large numbers of the fair operators appeared to be that they wanted to be shown that cancellation was absolutely necessary to the war effort. Others intended to go ahead with their plans unless forbidden by order to do so. Still others cancelled all plans in deference to the request.

Some deliberated.

Reaction to the Eastman suggestion included:

New York—County Associations to consider request. John F. Williams, president, says fairs will be called off if Eastman suggestion becomes order.

New Jersey—George Hamid, president of State Fair, says request would cripple billion dollar industry and hamper war effort. Suggesting a conference with President Roosevelt, Hamid said "If Eastman can show us where we can help the war effort in any degree we will be happy to discontinue fairs." State Fair to be held in fall unless stopped by president's orders.

Connecticut—Association says fairs should not be abandoned unless traveling carnivals and sports events go out too.

Colonel Will Explain
Naval Aviation Courses

Monday morning at 10 o'clock, Colonel Gordon Reel of Kingston and New York city, will meet with the young men graduating from Kingston High School at the high school auditorium to explain the opportunities for enlisted men in the Naval Aviation Cadet Corps. Colonel Reel is chairman of the Ulster county district for this work and urges the young men who are physically fit and mentally alert to take advantage of this unit of the service rather than waiting to be drafted.

These cadets will become navy flying officers and thousands are needed by the navy who will be able to act in and to command the flying forces. Colonel Reel said. Candidates will be examined and interviewed by various associate members of the Naval Aviation Cadet Selective Board.

Peter H. Troy of Poughkeepsie is general chairman for the Poughkeepsie, Newburgh and Kingston areas and already has referred several candidates to the district selection board at 120 Broadway.

New York, June 20 (AP)—Mild support appeared for scattered favorites in today's stock market but the general run of leaders was ignored.

The direction was indefinite at the start and, with dealings relatively slow, prices were irregular near the final hour.

The war news still provided scant bullish inspiration, brokers said, and many who leaned to the buying side continued to hold back pending outcome of the Roosevelt-Churchill conferences.

Erie Common added another fraction in the wake of the surprise dividend declaration, first in 76 years. Eastman Kodak got up 1/2 point. Resistant also were Southern Pacific, Sears Roebuck, General Electric and Goodyear.

Among laggards were U. S. Steel, Chrysler, Santa Fe, American Telephone, du Pont, Kennecott, Douglas Aircraft and General Motors.

Bonds were mixed. Commodities steadied.

New Device May
Revolutionize Way
Of Transcription

Chicago, June 20 (AP)—The Armour Research Foundation announced today development and patenting of a device that records sound on steel wire as thin as a human hair and may, the Foundation said, revolutionize the technique of transcription.

Dr. Harold Vagtborg, director of the Foundation, affiliated with the Illinois Institute of Technology, credited the device chiefly to Marvin Camras, 26-year-old staff assistant physicist.

The recorder is about the size of a large portable radio and an eight-hour continuous recording can be wound on a spool 5 inches in diameter and 2 inches wide. It records sound magnetically and there is no mechanical change in the wire, which can be demagnetized and used again.

Once the recording is made, the sounds can be played back immediately without processing. Dr. Vagtborg said the wire would retain this recorded sound potential for years or could be wiped clean instantly by the demagnetizing process.

The recorder, he said, can be set to start and stop automatically and needs no attention while running. He said these advantages give it limitless practical applications, such as:

In airplanes microphones placed in the control cabins could pick up all conversations and commands. Housed in an asbestos case, the recorder would survive a crash and tell the story of what preceded it.

It could record millions of words of enemy propaganda at government monitoring radio stations and reduce greatly the amount of critical materials used in making standard type records. The storage problem, too, would be minimized.

In the home radio, the device could record a daytime program—such as a baseball game—so that those away could hear it later.

Mr. Mauhs has publicly supported President Roosevelt's war efforts and has continually urged united and public support of the President long before Pearl Harbor, according to his friends. He has also been an outspoken opponent of isolationism, and is a strong supporter of the government's foreign policy.

districts the organization was not yet complete and the actual house to house canvass had not been started.

County Chairman J. Edward Conway said that every citizen of the city and county, secure at home, should realize that the men in the armed service are fighting our cause and are giving their all that we at home may continue to live in security and continue in our jobs. Judge Conway called attention to the fact that there are no special committees, no industrial committees, no special gifts committees working among the special groups in the industrial sections. Some people have told workers that they cannot contribute at home since they intend to go or already have contributed to the U. S. O. drive through some special committee.

"There are no such special committees and we are depending upon the individual workers to alone collect the contributions," Judge Conway stated. "House to house solicitation is the only manner in which U. S. O. funds are now being solicited and every patriotic citizen should feel it is his or her duty to make a contribution," Judge Conway said.

"In Kingston and the county there are several war industries employing many people at considerably higher than average wages. While these men and women remain at home and reap the financial benefits of the war many of the youth of our city and county are dying in order that our way of living may continue. These people safely at home should feel it their patriotic duty to contribute generously to this important cause. No one knows when their boy may be the next one reported killed in action in order that we may continue to live a free life," one of the workers stated. He cited instances where defense workers had donated very generously to the cause, donating in proportion to the wage they were receiving and remarked that in some instances there was a belief that because a portion of the wage was being withheld to buy defense bonds, people believed they were making a contribution to the cause.

"Withholding of money for war bonds is no contribution to the cause, such purchase is an investment for the future," he said.

In an effort to step up the drive and create a more patriotic spirit all ministers of the city will be asked to announce from the pulpits on Sunday the U. S. O. drive

Two Honor Roll
Tablets Are HungTemporary Plaques List
Names of 528 Men

Two of the temporary Honor Roll tablets on which are inscribed the names of Kingston youth in the armed services of the nation, have been completed and were hung in the main corridor of the city hall on Friday afternoon.

The tablets contain the names of 528 men of the city.

F. J. Knappen of Greenkill avenue, W. P. A. artist who painted the picture of the American flag which hangs in the main corridor of the city hall, also painted the two Honor Roll tablets.

The names which appear on the tablets were compiled from lists obtained from the Kingston Selective Service Board and from families of the men in the armed services.

It is planned at the close of the war to have a suitable permanent Memorial Tablet, similar to the one positioned on the wall in front of the city hall, which contain the names of those who served in the first World War.

Dry Week-End Expected
For Gasoline Stations

New York, June 20 (AP)—A dry week-end for gasoline stations in the eastern seaboard was predicted today by the New York office of the petroleum coordinator as thousands of stations displayed "no-gas" signs.

C. A. Lockard, acting director of marketing for the O. P. C., said most stations on main highways had exhausted their quotas but some supplies still were available generally "off the main roads and in the residential districts."

He said the situation would not be relieved before Monday morning when dealers may draw on a new quota for the last 10 days of June.

Lockard placed major blame for the shortage on the action of the office of price administration, in doubling the unit value of ration-card coupons from three to six gallons, although there was no corresponding increase in the supply available to dealers.

Sol A. Herzog, general counsel for the Eastern States Gasoline Dealers Conference, said there were "serious" shortages along the coast from Rhode Island to Delaware and attributed the scarcity to "bad miscalculations" by the O. P. A.

Gasoline rations for tourists in Canada are restricted to 24 United States gallons for any one car during a period of one year, the Department of Commerce reports.

DIXIE BRIDE SEEKS ADVICE ABOUT ETIQUETTE IN NORTH

In the South where a reader tells me she was born and lived most of her life, people were evidently very friendly and generously hospitable. When she married and came North a few years ago, she and her husband joined the church and people there were friendly too. They asked her husband to join the men's group and they asked her to join the women's. When they go to their meetings, people are cordial and kind.

"But for almost a year," her letter continues, "not one woman in the whole circle has called on me and not one family has invited us inside their home. The other evening I just had to ask one woman if no one liked me enough to call on me. Yesterday she and two other church members called and were very pleasant. They stayed the conventional twenty minutes and then left. Am I to consider these calls in the light of impersonal church duty or should I now pay a return visit on each of these ladies? And then what?"

The "what" as I see it, is that you now return the visit of each of these ladies. Then you wait for one of them to make the next move. Or if you can tell by their manner that they like you—which ought to be easy enough to sense—you could perfectly well say to one of them at the end of an afternoon meeting, "Won't you come home with me and have a cup of tea?" I am taking it for granted that you have an awareness of friendly intention. If she does not accept with obvious pleasure, make no further move until one is made by her to you.

Sending Invitation with Announcement

Dear Mrs. Post: I'd like to have my parents send announcements of my marriage which took place several months ago. They are giving me a reception, but not to include everyone to whom these announcements will be sent. Can we have a separate card enclosed it with some of the announcements? This seems sensible with a view to saving postage and addressing of needless envelopes.

Answer: Certainly—or at least I see no reason why not.

So many requests have been made for copies of my article on details concerned with training camps (behavior of visitors and presents for the men), that I have had it printed as a leaflet and will be very glad to send it to anyone who sends me a self-addressed, three-cent stamped envelope in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, Post Office Box 75, Station O, New York, N. Y. Leaflets cannot be mailed unless self-addressed envelope bears correct amount of postage.

Blackout Togs Shine

Fluorescent clothing in factories is proving successful, it is reported in London. Clothing dyed with fluorescent colors, glows with a subdued radiance when seen near, but the glow is too weak to be seen at a distance. In factories equipped with ultraviolet lamps workers wearing such garb are easily visible to one another during a blackout.

Local Guard Unit Escorts Visiting General at Camp

Men of Company A, 56th Regiment, New York State Guard, who left the local armory recently for two-weeks' training at Camp Smith, Peekskill, formed one of two platoons in a provisional company as escort of honor for Major General Ottman, commanding general of the New York Guard, Thursday, it was learned today.

The other platoon was composed of men of Company E, Newburgh. The general was at the camp on an inspection tour and the men who formed the escort of honor were under the command of Captain Allan L. Hanstein of the local guard unit.

Both Captain Hanstein and Captain John Schwenk report that the "boys are doing a fine job and are in excellent condition."

The following other information came today from the camp:

"Company B along with the other units of the 56th Regt., arrived at camp about 1 p. m. Sunday. Sunday was a long day for most of the boys because the evening meal was not served until 7 p. m.

This regiment being the last one in camp, everything was late being issued, but now things are running along smoothly and the meals are being served on time and the boys are eating very good.

"The boys moved out Monday morning early and were on the rifle range all day where everybody fired the Enfield Rifles. Tuesday the shotguns and submachine guns were fired. We also had a detail go to gas school where they learned all about different kinds of gases. Wednesday morning was spent on scouting and patrolling and hasty entrenching.

"The boys also have a lot of fun. Pvt. MacConnell was issued a raincoat about six sizes too large for him, when he put it on it dug up the ground. The supply sergeant changed it for him when he was not around and MacConnell thought it had shrunk from the moisture and said he would not want to get caught in a heavy rain with it. Lt. Rigby, Corp. Frigo, and Pvt. Hogan have the finest cases of sunburn anyone ever saw. Pvt. Hogan said they were going to take the red flag down on the rifle range and hoist him up instead.

Pvt. Grunewald is our chow hound always getting seconds and sometimes thirds. Pvt. Osborn arrived in camp Wednesday afternoon not having come down with the company. A certain well known private in the company went to Peekskill to get his hair cut and wound up in a beauty parlor where it cost him 75 cents, and what a haircut. All the high school boys in the company have been going to the Peekskill High School where they are taking examinations. Pvt. Chase is always arriving at his tent at 10:29 p. m., and taps are at 10:30 p. m., and usually get in bed with a morning dive. Last night his tentmates sprinkled salt and cracker crumbs in his bed and loosened the locks on his cot so that when he hit the bed it collapsed. Chase said he would sleep on the floor but he had to get up and turn his mattress over before he could sleep. Sgt. Geoco is doing a fine job of running the company in the absence of First Sgt. Giles. Sgts. Earl Tongue, Steve Hyatt, and Chet Balz are having a hard time keeping their men together and keeping them busy."

Henry L. Cox Honored By Insurance Company

Henry L. Cox of 117 Pine street, who has served the Prudential Insurance Co. for 25 years as an agent, working out of the Kingston office, was awarded the Prudential Old Guard diamond-studded gold locket Friday, in recognition of his long service. The presentation was made at a regular business meeting of Prudential agents, by Superintendent William Rose.

Members of the staff of Henry Schantz, to which Mr. Cox was attached, also presented him with a fine silk umbrella as a token of the esteem in which he was held by his immediate associates. Mr. Cox, who retires on the pension to which his length of service entitles him, remarked that he certainly was prepared for a "rainy day."

Woman's Club Plans Dance at Rosendale

A special meeting of the Woman's Club of Rosendale was held Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Joseph Hall to discuss and make final plans for its annual dance to be held at the Firemen's Hall on July 4. This work was started last year, and the club invited everyone to enjoy this shady bit of woodland and beach, an ideal spot on a hot summer afternoon. The Boy Scout Troop 14 of Rosendale have undertaken the job of conditioning the park as a civic project. This troop is sponsored by the Woman's Club, and the boys plan to use the park for meetings this summer.

Scout Troop Barn Dance

Rubber Salvage Campaign Given Big Utica Boost

Harry Hotchkiss, state secretary for the rubber salvage campaign said that the largest haul made by the State Salvage Committee out of individual gas stations came yesterday from a station in Utica, where 50 tons had been deposited in one day.

In Albany 100 householders were contacted by telephone in a survey to determine the amount of cooperation on the part of the public. Mr. Hotchkiss said that of this number 65 had searched their premises for scrap rubber and the other 35 planned to do so before the drive was ended. The average contribution from Albany homes, where scrap rubber has been collected and turned in, is said to be from 12 to 13 pounds.

In Albany city and county total collected to date is 116,000 pounds, of which 116,000 pounds were collected from gas stations on Friday.

The Colonial Beacon Oil Co. of Albany put on a "stunt" Friday when a large truck, with signs and cow bells, was sent through the rural area of the Catskill mountain section in an endeavor to pick up salvage rubber on the farms. The truck made two trips Friday and brought in a total of 12,000 pounds of scrap rubber.

The plan was the idea of Henry Post of Catskill, gas station manager. The truck carried scales to weigh the rubber and farmers were paid at the rate of one cent a pound, except in such cases as the scrap was donated.

Red Cross in Britain Promotes Good Fellowship

London—The lowly hamburger is rapidly assuming the status of an international delicacy.

At American Red Cross clubs in London and Ireland, Red Cross recreation workers report that special hamburger nights arranged at the clubs have won wide patronage among the British as well as the American troops.

Soda water and pop, long the favorite American beverage companion of the hamburger, are ryeing with tea as the British soldiers' favorite drink, the Red Cross workers declare.

Popularity of the Red Cross clubs has spread throughout the American troops, and they have become the favorite meeting place for American and British troops on leave. The clubs have been opened in Londonderry and Belfast, in addition to two clubs in London.

The famous Northern Counties Hotel in Londonderry, where prominent personages including the ex-Kaiser of Germany and Amelia Earhart, famous aviatrix, once dined, now served as a Red Cross service club. In Belfast the Plaza Hotel has been turned into a Red Cross club, and in London the former headquarters of the American Eagle Club and the Washington Hotel have become Red Cross clubs.

Red Cross officials here have announced that other clubs will be opened as the need arises. The clubs have done much to promote good will among the British and American troops. Dances are held during the week, and on non-dance nights singing and games occupy the men in uniform.

Along with its program of providing recreational facilities for American service men on leave, who are stationed in the British Isles, the American Red Cross has assumed the responsibility of introducing American boys into British homes.

British hospitality has been extended to scores of men on leave, and Red Cross workers see to it that the Americans are introduced to congenial English families.

"This is going to help everyone to a better understanding and lead to lasting friendship, not only during the war, but afterwards as well," one Red Cross worker declared.

"Already, on both sides, we have adjusted our ideas about how the other looks and behaves. The American boys know now that all Englishmen do not wear monocles or talk high-hat, and the British realize that all Americans are not continually explaining how much better things are done on the other side," the worker explained.

To facilitate this understanding among the American and British allies, the Red Cross is establishing a Central Leave Information Bureau to be located in London.

For Americans who are having difficulty in understanding British idioms, the Red Cross information bureau will have on hand an Anglo-American dictionary, which will explain that a radio in England is a wireless; a tube here is not a radio tube, but the subway, and that in giving directions a Britisher does not tell you to walk so many blocks but to take the third or fourth turning.

Other Red Cross clubs are being operated in Melbourne, Australia, and New Caledonia, in the Southwest Pacific.

Kingston to Have County Convention Of Legion Units

At a meeting held last night at the Memorial Building, 18 West O'Reilly street, that lasted past the midnight hour, matters of vital importance to the Post and to the Legion in general were taken up for action.

It was announced that Kingston will have the Ulster County Legion convention July 26, with Commander Chester Bradford presiding. John Ludlow, of Ellenville, the adjutant of the organization, will give his annual report in behalf of all the affiliated Posts. Important high ranking Legionnaires will be guests at the convention.

Harry Karnaghan, service officer, informed the gathering that the government is anxious to obtain women typists and stenographers with good compensation and fine chances for promotion. Morton Finch reported that the entire equipment of the senior drum corps has been sold and that the unit is now completely disbanded.

Captain L. S. Miller, Harry L. Kirchner, and Eugene P. MacConnell, were commended for their efforts in behalf of the Aircraft Warning Service and for their untiring devotion to observation posts in the county of Ulster.

The United Spanish American War Veterans will be received on July 14, at 5:30 p. m. for their convention in Kingston, by a specially selected color guard, and by the Sons of Legion Drum Corps. A contribution was made towards the fund of the U. S. O.

Commander Stanley H. Dempsey presented the Post with a "service flag" representing Joseph Gregory, now captain on the cruiser Trenton, and Dr. Joseph Jacobson, now a Lt. Commander in the navy. In a most inspiring speech he pointed out that these men represent the spirit of the Legion and the emotions of the men who are not privileged to serve.

The Post faces a difficult election at its next meeting, since three commanders are in the field for election. They are William F. Moller, Sam Feyer and Chaplain Clarence Brown.

The meeting adjourned in memory of a deceased Legionnaire, Charles Boughton.

With temperatures ranging in the 90's in Kingston there was a sudden deluge of rain at 8:45 o'clock and in 10 minutes there was a precipitation of 3-10 of an inch of rain. The total precipitation for the storm, according to the city engineer's records, was 36 of an inch. The total rainfall so far this month has been 1.96 inches in the city.

Camilli Receives Award
Before the Brooklyn Dodgers and St. Louis Cardinals twilight game at Ebbets Field Thursday night, Miss Jean Cagney of the stage presented Dolph Camilli, first baseman of the Dodgers, with the National Father's Day Committee award as the outstanding father in the field of sports during the 1942 season.

Frick Will Be M.C.

Ford Frick, president of the National League and a former well-known sportscaster for radio broadcasts, will be master of ceremonies at the women's A.A.U. championship swimming meet scheduled for Sunday, July 5, at the Sleepy Hollow Country Club, Scarborough, on Hudson, for the benefit of the Army Emergency Relief.

Operation on Hurler

Johnny Babich, Newark Bear pitcher of the International League, will undergo an operation on his pitching arm. Bill Meyer, manager of the Bears, said a chip in Babich's right elbow joint must be removed. Babich has won six straight games for the Bears. He was a former big league hurler with Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics.

Giants 'Allop Soldiers

Taking a day off from the regular National League schedule Thursday afternoon, Mel Ott's New York Giants defeated the Fort Hamilton baseball team by the score of 17 to 6. Babe Barna starred for the Giants with a homer with the bags loaded. Harry Feldman and Ray Berres formed the battery for the Polo Grounds club.

New Wesleyan Captain

Richard E. Hickey, Jr., of Springfield, Mass., has been elected captain of the Wesleyan baseball team for 1943. Hickey is a junior and has been the varsity catcher for two years. John J. Byrne of Brookline, Mass., and Bernard A. Gize of Middletown, Conn., will be co-captains of the track squad for the 1943 campaign.

Chandler Is Stopped

Spud Chandler, New York Yankee right-hander, was after his sixth straight victory of the season Thursday afternoon before the Detroit Tigers stopped him. His record for the year is seven wins and two reverses. Virgil Trucks, who defeated the Yankees, won his fourth straight of the 1942 campaign.

New Narragansett Race Track

When the Narragansett race track opens its summer season August 10, admission to the races will be by "war stamps" only, it was announced today.

Track Wins Decision

The Garden State Racing Association, beleaguered by opposition ever since it was licensed to construct New Jersey's first horse track for running races with pari-mutuel betting, won a State Supreme Court decision this week clearing the way for opening its track near Camden next month.

Golf Pro Is in Better Shape Now Than in Depression

Wide World Features
New York—To those whose income has been hard hit by the war you can add your old friend, the golf professional.

Most of his troubles can be traced directly to the ladies. They were the ones who took the golf lessons while hubby worked in town. At least 60 per cent of all golf instruction was given to women—and now they're devoting their time to war work and forgetting all about driving and chipping lessons.

So far, golf clubs haven't been badly hurt. Except for the summer or seashore courses. People who used to spend their summers on the ocean front and belonged to summer clubs just aren't going to those vacation spots this year.

Most clubs report play has cut down considerably during the week but has shown an increase on the week-end. Men who used to sneak out for a late afternoon round are staying at their desks until dark.

Equipment Sales Spurt

The sale of equipment has spurted. Many golfers, figuring that new equipment couldn't be manufactured, hurried to buy that new set of clubs they'd been promising themselves. The golf ball situation is okay. There's enough for this season and, with the rebuilt ball coming into use, there probably will be enough for other years, too. There apparently isn't any lack of money, just an absence of time.

Some professionals already have taken part-time jobs in war production plants and others plan to relinquish their golf posts to take full-time jobs of this type. So far, 180 members of the Professional Golfers Association have joined the armed forces. Most of them are unknown nationally, but Corp. Vic Ghezzi, former PGA champion; Corp. Jim Turnesa, who went to the PGA finals a short while ago at Atlantic City, and Sammy Sneed, the 1942 PGA king, are in the group.

Sneed's Loss Hurts

The loss of Sneed may hurt the crowd-appeal of the touring pros in their cross-country junkies. He was the big boy and he's gone into the Navy. However, Fred Corcoran, the PGA tournament bureau manager, says present indications are that the pros will play just as many tournaments throughout the nation as in past years and for as large a total purse.

Although their business has been hit, Corcoran says the golf pro is in much better shape than he was during the depression years of 1930-31, when many clubs went to the wall and thousands were forced to give up the game entirely.

The PGA, at its recent tournament, said its outstanding players would play as many exhibitions as could be arranged with the proceeds going to Army and Navy relief funds and to the Red Cross.

Turnesa Retains Lead Over Hogan In Hale America

Ridgemoor Golf Course Proves Too Easy for Top Stars: Hogan Posts 62 Score

Chicago, June 20 (AP)—United States Golf Association officials having seen one contestant round Ridgemoor in 62 and a dozen others turn in equally silly scores, are congratulating themselves for not recognizing the Hale America benefit tournament as the national open.

The last two days have been exciting in a way, and the birdies and eagles undoubtedly will continue through tomorrow, but the players themselves have been the first to insist it isn't related even faintly to championship golf. The U.S.G.A. would have been mighty embarrassed if it had yielded to urging and run up its official flag. Ridgemoor has proved far too easy for the top stars. Even Mike Turnesa, most phenomenal member of the golfing family at present, thought it funny when he scored a second round 66—six under par—to go with his 65 of the previous day.

"It's a little tough on Ben Hogan," he laughed. "He shoots a par 72 and then a 62 and I'm still leading him three strokes." Hogan's 62 yesterday made Ridgemoor look like a pitch-and-putt layout. Ben, himself, conceded it wasn't his greatest golf. It was just a question of having 11 one-putt greens, he said.

"It Was a Mistake"

"As a matter of fact, that 62 was all a mistake," Hogan chuckled. "I thought they were going to halve the field after 36 holes and I was giving it everything for fear I wouldn't even qualify for the last two rounds. Now I find everybody is going to play the full 72 holes."

"Somebody ought to tell me these things." As they started the third 18-hole round today, Mike Turnesa had three big strokes on Hogan and stood a good chance of hauling down first prize of $1,000. But he couldn't afford to slip to anywhere near par golf because the field still was close.

Tied with 36-hole totals of 135—a stroke behind Hogan—were two dangerous competitors, Horton Smith and Lawson Little. Smith, the game's greatest putter, might take a lot of beating on Ridgemoor, where putting is everything. At 136 were Jimmy Demaret and Herman Barron; at 137 Denny Shute, Otey Crisman and Mike Spaul; 138, Harold "Jug" McSpaden, Dick Metz, Johnny Dawson, Bill Dear and Wilford Weirle, the last two amateurs; and at 139 were Byron Nelson, Ky Laffoon, Lloyd Mangrum and Buck White, eight strokes off the dizzy pace.

'UNKNOWN' SHOOTS SEVEN UNDER PAR

Otey Crisman (above), unheralded golfer from Selma, Ala., shot a sizzling seven under par 65 to lead early finishers in the first round of the Hale America tourney at the Ridgemoor course. Here he blasts his way out of one of the layout's many sand traps.

ON THE SPOT

By DILLON GRAHAM

Wide World-Sports Editor

New York—Notes off a golf writer's cuff:

Uphill or Down. Bobby Jones once said he would rather have to sink a putt downhill on a good green than one of the same length uphill, but Craig Wood, the National Open champion, doesn't agree.

"Give me that uphill putt any day. You can run a mile past it, you miss a down-hiller."

Vic Ghezzi, 1941 P. G. A. champion, and the veteran Gene Sarazen also prefer the uphill.

When a golfer is 10 feet from the hole on the downhill side, he has to strike the ball hard enough to make it go as far as the hole, at least, and also accurately enough to keep it on the line all the way.

"When you are a similar distance on the side above the hole," Jones explained, "all you have to do is simply to start the ball on the right line. Gravity does the rest, and does it better than you can hope to do it. You don't have to hit the ball all the way to the hole. It makes a lot of difference."

Jones, you'll recall, liked to have his putts "die" into the hole. He tried to hit them just hard enough that they reached the cup on their last legs. Most of our top golfers of today are bolder and some even bang their putts into the back of the cans.

Borrow. O. B. Keeler, Jones' Boswell, told me during a golf chat sometime ago that Jones preferred a "borrow" from the left in holing a curving putt.

One of Bob's most important putts—a 15-footer for a half at the 13th hole at Minikahda against Maurice McCarthy... was a big "rainbow" putt with at least three feet to borrow on the left.

Slipping? Four years ago Ralph Guidah was almost unbeatable. He was the first golfer since Jones to win the National Open two successive years and he set an all-time low scoring record.

But something went wrong with his game and he can't put it back together again. The other day he failed to qualify for the PGA championship. And it has been nearly two years since he won a tournament, his last triumph being in the 1940 Milwaukee Open.

Even while Guidah was riding high, however, some veteran golfers predicted that he would fade because his game wasn't technically sound and orthodox.

Ben Hogan, the current wonder, may slip, too, for he is frail and this constant pressure will sooner or later take something out of him. Ben admits that the strain is worse on him than most golfers because he has been so consistent. He's been among the contenders in almost every tournament he has played in two years, with never a chance to let up with the knowledge that he couldn't win.

Yankees Are Off

The Yankees are off, but not to a very good start on their western jaunt through the hinterlands. The Tigers have defeated them in three out of four games. The Yanks also made at least one error in every one of their games in Detroit for a total of six in the series. The champs haven't been hitting, either. They made just nine hits in the last two games against Detroit pitchers.

Navy Elects Leaders

Seven new Navy spring sports captains were announced this morning and they are as follows: Baseball, W. J. McNamara, Hewlett, N. Y.; rowing, E. B. Salsig, Fort Bragg, Calif.; tennis, E. Wyatt, San Diego, Calif.; lacrosse, R. J. Boozie, Baltimore; sailing, R. E. Fontaine, New Bedford, Mass.; track, C. L. Hayden, Marion, Kans., and golf, J. R. Peet, Webster Groves, Mo.

Indians Beat Yanks, 5-4; Dodgers Increase Lead

Ed Smith Loses Another Tough Decision; Paul Waner Collects His 3,000th Hit

(By The Associated Press)

The unluckiest man in baseball, by all odds, is lefty Edgar Smith of the Chicago White Sox.

After he had lost ten games in a row without winning, the fat, good-natured southpaw star thought his tide had turned Sunday when he beat the Washington Senators. He figured he had hit bottom in the game he lost 2-0 to the Philadelphia Athletics although allowing only two hits.

But Smith learned last night that there are even tougher breaks: The Boston Red Sox beat him 1-0 on a home run when the ball stuck under the bull pen bench at Comiskey Park.

Smith waged a magnificent hurling duel with Broadway Charley Wagner of the Red Sox, spacing seven hits to Wagner's six. The only difference between the two was that drive by Dominic DiMaggio which rolled out of sight under the bench and couldn't be found till DiMaggio was crossing the plate.

Smith had been beaten twice before 1-0, twice 2-1, once 4-3 and once, of course 2-0. Altogether he has lost six games by one run.

This dramatic mischance took some of the attention away from the New York Yankees' fourth loss in five games: Paul Waner getting his 3,000th hit; the Brooklyn Dodgers downing the St. Louis Cardinals again; and other sprightly developments.

Tribe Whips Yanks

The Yanks were whipped 5-4 at Cleveland as the veteran Mel Harder pitched four-hit ball, blanking all the Yanks except Bill Dickey (3 hits) and Phil Rizzuto who hit a two-run homer. The Indians were held to five hits by Lefty Gomez and John Murphy, but two of these hits were a homer and a triple by Oris Hockett.

John Niggeling pitched a four-hit shutout as the St. Louis Browns pelted the Philadelphia Athletics 4-0 with a 12-hit attack and Hal White hurled six-hit ball as the Detroit Tigers trimmed the Washington Senators 5-1.

The Dodgers boosted their National League lead to 6½ games by stopping St. Louis for the second straight time 4-3. Whitlow Wyatt annexing his seventh triumph against one defeat.

Brooklyn made eight hits, but took command of the game early when John Rizzo rified a two-run homer off lefty Ernie White in the second inning. In the third Pete Reiser stole home for the second time this season.

Waner's entry into a select group of six all-time stars who have made 3,000 hits—Cobb, Speaker, Wagner, Collins, Lajoie and Anson, all of them in baseball's Hall of Fame—proved just an incident in a thrilling 11-inning struggle which the Pittsburgh Pirates captured from the Boston Braves 7-6. Bob Elliott's second home run with two on in the 11th provided enough margin to withstand a two-run circuit clout by Nanny Fernandez in the last half of the inning.

Cincinnati subdued the Phils 6-4 on a three-run homer by Gee Walker, and the New York Giants beat the Chicago Cubs 6-5 after losing the first game of a doubleheader 7-4. The two games produced 49 hits, including five home runs.

Colonels to Play Roaring Forties Sunday Afternoon

Dr. O'Connor and Mayor Edelmuth Squads to Meet at Loughran in Second Game

The second game of a five game series between Dr. Francis O'Connor's Kingston Colonels, formerly the "Bloomer Boys," and Mayor William Edelmuth's Roaring Forties, will be played at Loughran Park Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Dr. O'Connor's club won the initial fracas last week.

Latest dispatches from the camps of both outfits report that the squad members are in excellent shape after last week's hectic struggle. No definite pitching assignments have been announced as yet, but both teams have extra hurlers ready.

The mayor's squad will have a "seasoned" team ready to square the series. Bud Culliton, Ed Coughlin, the mayor himself and Judge Cahill will take over in the infield. Mr. Edelmuth will be stationed at shortstop. In the outfield Jack Hartman, Frank Campbell, Gordon Fitzgerald and Mac McCaffey will be set for service. Jack Robins and Vic Ruzzo will do the catching. Mayor Edelmuth will have Dick Williams and the veteran Freddie Stout ready for mound duties.

Dr. O'Connor will be at first base for the Colonels. Dr. Diacovo will be at second, Jimmy Bott on third and Bill McAuliffe at short.

Eddie O'Reilly, Francis Noonan, Ray Garrahan and Ed Noonan are listed for fly-chasing duty. Judging from last week's contest, there will be plenty fly-chasing to do.

Tommy Davitt and Roger Billings are expected to do the hurling for the O'Connor squad. Davitt hurled part of last week's game and although he had a sore arm at the end of the battle treatments have put his valuable flipper in good shape again.

After lengthy discussions, two umpires were selected with care for this second game of the important series. They will be Jack Hoffman behind the plate and Chris Flanagan on the bases. Both have been instructed to "call 'em as they see 'em" without showing any partiality.

It looks like another tough game for these two ball clubs and fans who like to see baseball in one sense, had better visit Loughran Park about 2 o'clock. Last week some fans brought their lunch and made a picnic out of it.

Last Night's Game With Yankees Rained Out Again; Sunday's Tilt Starts at 9

It was discouraging to the Kingston Recreation and the Black Yankees last night about 8:30 o'clock when a violent rainstorm washed out another ball game between these two clubs. It was the fourth straight postponement in the past two seasons.

Officials of both clubs were jovial around 8 o'clock or before when throngs of fans started to pour into the municipal stadium. Another banner crowd of at least 2,000 fans would have watched the ball game. But by now, the Recs and the Yanks are getting pretty resigned to the fact that they just can't get that battle in on the books.

Manager Joe Hoffman's Recreationists will try to get back to a ball game Sunday night at the up-town ball park when the outstanding Brooklyn Royal Giants come in. Yes, it's another Negro club coming in tomorrow night and the Recs are keeping their fingers crossed for good weather. Game time is 9 o'clock.

Hempe Will Pitch

Tomorrow night's struggle will be the first competition for Kingston since last Sunday's brawl with the Jersey City Blue Sox. Don Hempe, the young Poughkeepsie High School star will make his second start of the season for the Recs and will be gunning for his second straight triumph. He scattered 10 hits last week to turn back the Blue Sox.

It will be a much tougher menu for Hempe tomorrow night. The Royal Giants, as fans will remember, have one of the finest collection of sepi stars in baseball today loaded with the proper amount of pitching and hitting talent. This will be the initial "big name" Negro team to visit the stadium this year

Stang Is Director Of Girls' State Unit

Frederick Stang, assistant district attorney, has been named political director of programs for the Girls' State which will be conducted at Russell Sage College, Troy, during the week of July 12 to 20.

Girls State is sponsored by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the American Legion and is conducted along the same lines as Boys State. Two girls from each county are being sent to Girls State for a week to study and live government in actual practice. Girls State sets up its own government and operates the government for a week under actual governmental conditions. There are elections, inauguration of a governor, senate and assembly, and other forms of state, county and municipal government. The girls selected to attend Girls State are those who have earned the right to attend through meritorious service in school.

The girls selected to attend are given the opportunity to study government at first hand and to live and act in their own "state" just as actual government is operated. This year at Russell Sage the girls will have the opportunity to hear from practical people just how government functions. The girls will select their own officers in the same manner as is done actually in political life. There will be election of assemblywomen, a speaker will be selected. A governor will be selected and present plans call for the "inauguration" ceremony to be conducted by Governor Lehman in the assembly chambers of the State Capitol with Governor Lehman swearing in the "girl governor" of Girls State.

During the week there will be educational talks by experts in government on various phases of government including talks on the budget and all other branches.

His car struck the island which divides the north and south lanes, careened off the west side of the highway and up a bank, striking trees and brush and turned over several times. Roberts was thrown out through the door on the right side of the point where a curve in the road at the time where the accident occurred.

Coroner Jesse McHugh of Wallkill was notified and the body was taken to the C. B. Carpenter funeral parlors in Highland.

Cripps Announces Second Front Is To Be Undertaken

said, "both enemy columns turning back to the westward."

This implied that the Axis vanguards found the British drawn up in greater strength than expected and retired to await reinforcements.

The British reported yesterday they had taken up "strong positions" along the Egyptian-Libyan border, but it was apparent from today's communique that they were operating well out from the old battle sectors around Salum and Halfaya ("Hellfire") Pass.

Meetings Are In Secret

While President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill met in secret somewhere in the United States—presumably mapping counter blows to developing Axis summer offensives in Europe, Asia and Africa—the British press demanded that Parliament investigate the reverse at Tobruk.

"The enemy knows why and how he won the battle," declared the London Daily Mail, joining a chorus of criticism. "We have a right to know how we lost it."

"Quite simply and bluntly," said the Evening News, "the reason is that from the beginning we have underestimated the strength, cunning, resources and recuperative power of the enemy."

"We did not believe he could have better tanks than ours, but he did." (The British used many American-built tanks in the latest North African fighting.)

"We did not imagine he would have a deadlier anti-tank gun. The volume of our transport was fantastic, but we did not calculate that Rommel's would be even more fantastic. . . . It is a bitter lesson."

On the Russian front, Soviet dispatches conceded that the German siege armies before Sevastopol were increasing their pressure, with fresh Nazi troops replacing the thousands who have already fallen in the bloody 16-day-old battle.

But the Russians still drew an optimistic picture of the struggle for the key Black Sea fortress, declaring officially:

"Our infantrymen, sailors and artillerymen, repelling attacks of the enemy, are delivering ever new blows against them."

Dispatches to Red Fleet, Soviet navy newspaper, said four German infantry regiments, supported by tanks and 60-plane strafing formations, drove close to a strong defense point only to be hurled back after a 15-hour battle.

This may have been fort Maxim Gorky, which the German high command asserted had been captured, with most of the northern fortifications of the beleaguered city.

Bombers Hit Germany

Other developments: A "strong force" of R. F. bombers, perhaps 250 to 300 planes, blasted the German naval base at Emden and the railway city of Osnabruck last night in the heaviest air smash at Germany in two weeks, the British reported.

Other R. A. F. raiders attacked airdromes in Nazi-occupied Holland. Nine planes were acknowledged missing.

Nazi terror—German fring-squads were reported reaching a new peak of bloodshed in conquered Europe yesterday.

In London, the Polish government-in-exile said a new wave of mass executions had begun in Poland, with more and more women crumpling before the fusillades of Nazi execution squads. Forty persons, including 22 women, were said to have been taken from Warsaw prison and shot. Fifteen others, including 12 women, were reported hanged in Poznan.

At the same time, the German news agency DNB admitted that a sweeping purge of "anti-social elements"—meaning anyone who disagrees with the Nazis—had started in Vienna and the lower Danube province of Austria.

DNB intimated the purge would embrace the entire German Reich. The news agency declared "anti-social persons represent an element of unrest of the first order" and defined them as anyone who "owing to criminal, anti-state or querulous inclinations continually enters into conflict" with Nazi rule.

Thus, obliquely, the Germans gave the first intimation of smoldering dissatisfaction in Austria, which the Nazis seized in a ruthless coup in March, 1938.

They were Joseph Thomas, 40, of Newark, N. J., charged with assault, third degree and Carl Ridings of Kansas City, Mo., who is charged with disorderly conduct.

LeFevre and Wicks Head Party Slate

chairman at the Albany Republican dinner of February 25th in these words, and I quote:

"And when the armed might of the marauding dictators is crushed, as it will be, the American people must exercise every ounce of the preponderant force we shall develop to guarantee the future peace of the world against aggression. We must be prepared to preserve the new peace on a basis of justice, fair-dealing and good will among men. We must resolve that the security of the human family never again will be exposed to the whims, egotisms and satanic ambitions of villainous autocracy anywhere. After this time, let it never again be possible to say that the price our boys will be called upon to pay will have been in vain."

The response to that enunciation left no doubt in my mind about Republican unanimity to see this war through to a final conclusion that will destroy totally the armed might of war-minded dictators. The Republican party by heritage and enduring principles is committed to a civilization wherein free men and women may enjoy the blessings of liberty. As citizens and Republicans we know our duty to the country and its established leadership in this war emergency, and we are living up to our obligations without reservations or quibble.

Party Will Be True

The Republican party likewise will be true to its obligation to preserve for our armed forces and the civilian population the two-party system of government which is the only alternative to autocracy. We have supported and will continue to support every constructive measure that will bring us to victory, but we will not let the people down by withholding constructive criticism of mismanagement or unsound policies in the conduct of public affairs. Nor will we hesitate to advance policies and recommend procedure that will enhance the public welfare. To do otherwise would be a form of treason that would be unpardonable.

Next to victory in the war, preservation of the two-party system of self-government is the most important business of the American people. For the sake of military efficiency absolute powers have been delegated to our commander-in-chief, the President. All citizens recognize the necessity for exercise of arbitrary powers in war emergency. There has been no partisan division on questions of power for the chief executive. Let us hope that when peace is restored there is no partisan division on the question of withdrawal of these emergency powers from the President. But if there is a division, the Republican party will lead the fight to restore the accepted peacetime processes of constitutional government with a minimum of bureaucratic regimentation. Until the war has been won decisively, debate on the scope of executive power in the national government has been suspended, but unless we keep the two-party system functioning the issue will be lost by default when it becomes vitally important.

Wherever the two-party system has collapsed dictatorship has taken over and civilization has been debauched beyond human contemplation. In Germany, Italy and Japan there is not the slightest vestige of political party rivalry or competition. Opposition, even in the mildest form, to the policies and orders of the one ruling party in either of these axis countries is tantamount to death—terrifying servitude in concentration camps. At the present time it must be obvious, even to citizens who shun affiliation with any party, that the Republican party is the only obstacle to one-party autocracy in America.

In the face of a hypothetical threat to the two-party system of government under which the United States has become the strongest nation in the world, hear from me to the well-meaning but misguided suggestions that free elections should be suspended for the duration. If such procedure were possible, which it is not, the American people would be denied that fundamental process of self-government upon which the whole structure of liberty and justice has been erected.

Election this year of a House of Representatives and one-third of the United States Senate is mandated by the federal constitution. Likewise, the constitution of the sovereign state of New York directs the election this year of a governor, a lieutenant governor, a comptroller and an attorney general, together with a state senate and assembly, constituting the two houses of the legislature. Abrogation of constitutional government would have to be the first step in any move to dispense with the secret ballot and "freeze" into office any elective public official, good, bad or indifferent, who happens to be holding down a seat in government.

Our system of free elections is an indispensable safety valve through which public opinion is clarified and the pressure of tense feeling is relieved. In 1864 when the fate of the union hung in the balance, the Democratic party backed a disgruntled general against Lincoln for re-election as president through the operations of the two-party system. There is no more excuse for abandoning elections now than there was in the midst of the civil war. Self-government can function only by the use of its fundamental processes. Failure of the people to use these processes would be fatal to the American form of government.

Inssofar as the war requires we have unchallenged national duty. Our patriotism is not a matter of partisanship. But nullification of the American right of free expression through the ballot would hardly serve the cause of national unity that is imperative for victory.

A few weeks after Pearl Harbor, National Democratic Chairman Flynn, preliminary to a drive for party contributions, urged the election of a solid Democratic congress this year to assure victory in the war. He has not recovered from a highly unfavorable public reaction to that un-American doctrine.

At any rate, Chairman Flynn must have learned by now that the Democratic party left to its own devices could never win the war. Imagine what a travesty on self-government would be produced by a one-party congress. Only this week we read that the safe working majority the Democratic party now holds in congress has deferred admittedly until after election action on important war problems like gasoline rationing, taxation and reduction of the draft age. The only reasonable inference is that politics is the first consideration of the party in power. There is also the prospect that, if re-elected, the present majority in congress will soak the public regardless. Thus we see how the New Deal has deteriorated the quality of representative government at Washington.

Fellow Republicans, it is not improbable this year that a transportation factor heretofore unknown in the motor vehicle era will complicate the election day. If drastic gasoline rationing becomes effective before November, obviously the leadership and committee men and party workers in counties outside of the metropolitan districts will be called upon to plan carefully to overcome an impediment to voting in widely separated polling places.

In the large cities transportation to voting booths is comparatively unimportant, except of course, for invalids and disabled citizens.

For example, the five counties comprising Greater New York have an aggregate area of 299 square miles. Within this area are 4,054 polling places. This averages approximately thirteen polling places to the square mile.

For all practical purposes polling places in New York City are "just around the corner" in easy walking distance. Lack of transportation would not impede seriously a full turnout at the polls in the metropolitan district.

On the other hand, in the so-called rural counties many voters must travel many miles to make a round trip to the polling place. Probably Hamilton county is the most extreme example of widely separated polls. There are only eleven election districts in Hamilton county's 1,747 square miles. This is an average of one district to 159 square miles, as compared to New York City's average of thirteen election districts to one square mile.

In Essex county the average is forty square miles to the election district; in Franklin county 34 square miles to one district and in St. Lawrence 30 square miles to a district. Quite a few other counties show a ratio of fifteen or twenty square miles to the district. In some cases the ratio is as high as one hundred square miles to one district.

Here in your own county of Ulster, the average is something like one polling place to twelve and one-half square miles. It is quite obvious that transportation is a vital necessity for up-state voting. The situation challenges the Republican party in the rural counties, and in the rural sections of the larger up-state counties as well. But I am sure the respective county committees will meet the situation. If we have to resort to community hay rides to the polls, Nothing can happen that will keep the Republicans from the polls in an important state and congressional year. The usual cooperation manifested in up-state counties will meet the situation.

Inssofar as the state government is concerned, the best thing politically that can happen is a general house-cleaning in the executive departments where Tammany-ized partisanship and smug indifference to the public service have reached the point of stagnation. Election of a Republican governor next November is the only chance to revitalize their state government. Because of long tenure and the desire to be self-perpetuating, the heads of the state executive departments have outlived their official usefulness. Some notable examples of inefficiency and hard-shelled exploitation of state services for partisan advantage may be had in the administrations of the public service commission, the state liquor authority and the civil service commission.

The platform on which the Republican party will carry the campaign to the people this year already has been written in the legislative chambers of the capitol by a Republican majority that has served the public welfare progressively and patriotically without partisan discrimination of extravagance. It is a platform of faithful performance. The Republican record in the state government is not open to constructive challenge. The legislature cut millions of dollars from state taxes while providing adequately for essential services. It was a hard road to travel with Governor Lehman and his subordinates raising obstacles at every turn. But the results speak for themselves. Now we find the governor having himself newsreels as the "great white father" of economy, when, as a matter of record, the legislature's accomplishment was achieved without one ounce of co-operation from the chief executive and those department heads who hold their places by his favor.

Fellow co-workers, the Republican party of New York is alive to the public interest and devoted to our responsible public administration. On policies that will enhance the comforts and prosperity of the people there is no difference of opinion among Republicans either in the duly established leadership or the party rank and file. The Republicans of New York see eye to eye for good government. We are not involved in discord because of overzealous, self-seeking factions. We have harmony that is deeply rooted in consideration for divergent viewpoints and concern for the well-being of the average citizen. We do not countenance bossism, political exploitation or special privilege. Between state headquarters and exploitation in the sixty-two counties we have confidence and good will that springs from tolerance and fair dealing.

So let us dedicate ourselves to work unceasingly to send Republicans to congress and to elect our state executive and legislative candidates. Thus New York will set an example of national unity that will never compromise short of total victory in the world conflict and eternal preservation of the Bill of Rights as the American code of human relations on the home front.

Tribute to Hasbrouck
Surrogate Harry H. Flemming offered a tribute to the late Judge G. D. B. Hasbrouck. Embodied in the tribute was a resolution that the convention record in the day's proceedings the memorial and that a copy be sent to the family. The resolution was unanimously adopted.

Judge Flemming spoke as follows:

The passing of the Honorable Gilbert D. B. Hasbrouck at the age of four-score and two years, on June 5th, 1942, marked approximately 60 years of professional activity, the greater part of which was spent in the spotlight of public service—he was former county chairman; served as corporation counsel of the City of Kingston; member of the Assembly of the State of New York; deputy and first deputy attorney general of the state; judge of the Court of Claims, and for two decades judge of the Supreme Court, including service in the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court; of late years official referee of the Supreme Court.

Throughout his career he had been held in high esteem by the members of the bench and bar throughout the state, and by many in private life who knew of his attainments.

Judge Hasbrouck was, in the highest and best use of the term, an educated man. He did not confine his study hours to the field of law alone, save as he made his journeys into other inter-related territory serve his primary purpose, to administer the duties of the high office committed to him in such a manner as to bring the greatest satisfaction that comes to one in life, the conviction of a work well done.

Over the portals of the stately building that houses the highest tribunal in the land, in the City of Washington, there is an inscription: "Equal Justice for All." More than four centuries before the coming of the greatest of all great teachers, one of the prophets of old, with apparently no legal technique yet possessing a mental attitude that comprehended life in all phases of its activities, propounded a question as to the requirements of the Supreme Ruler of mankind, and then answered it in these words: "To do justly; to love mercy, and to walk humbly before the Lord.
